Question 2 : Will the responsibility of getting permissions from the landowners be solely the responsibility of the project consultant? I does not seem like there is enough funding in the current budget. Normally the watershed council or jurisdictional partners have relationships or quicker/easier ways to communicate with landowners.

Answer 2 : Please respond with what you believe is a practical way to complete the project within the budget allotted. As stated in the RFP, the Council does have positive relationships with jurisdictions and we believe that getting permission to access those lands will be quick. The Council also has a streamside steward program that has built relationships with streamside landowners who allow the Council permission to perform enhancements to their streamside properties.
